

AT WORK ON DISTRICT BILL.

Senate Committee Disposed to Hurry, But Considers Amendments.

Work on the District appropriation bill was continued today by the subcommittee of the Senate appropriations committee. Chairman John Walter Smith is doing his utmost to hurry the bill along to completion, but is at the same time anxious to give full consideration to the merits of all the proposed amendments. Amendments to the bill were offered in the Senate by Senator Shafroth to improve Jewett street from a point opposite the Zoo Park entrance to Woodley road, $15,000, and by Senator Brady to improve Van Ness street from Connecticut avenue to Idaho avenue north-west and Idaho avenue from Van Ness street to Pierce Mill road, $7,500.

PORTIAS IN GLASS ADMITTED TO BAR

Seven Women and 190 Men Qualify Before Supreme Court of District.

NUMBER OF APPLICANTS IS THE HIGHEST IN YEARS

Candidates Take Oath in Batches of Ten—Welcome Extended by Chief Justice Covington.

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia today admitted to practice seven women and 190 men who were successful at the recent examinations for admission to the bar. The candidates crowded the general term courtroom and took the attorney's oath in batches of ten. Each new lawyer held his or her hand aloft while Deputy Clerk O'Connell recited the oath.

One of the new Portias took her law degree at Georgetown University, being one of the few women who have been conferred the degree of bachelor of laws by G. W. U. The other six women graduates were from the Washington College of Law.

Attorney William Henry Dennis, chairman of the examining committee, announced to the court that the number of applicants for the recent examinations was the largest in the history of the local bar, there being 287 who submitted papers. Of this number 187 were successful, a rather large proportion, he stated.

Chief Justice Covington presided at the general term meeting at which the new lawyers were admitted. With him were Associate Justices Gould, Stafford, McCoy and Siddons.

Welcome by Chief Justice.

The chief justice in welcoming the applicants outlined to them the duties and lofty responsibilities of the legal profession, and impressed upon them the necessity of subordinating the mere acquisition of wealth or even the obtaining of a livelihood to the demands of the ethics of the profession and the faithful performance of the duties of a lawyer.

Miss Marion Clark of Cecilton, Md., has the distinction of being the first woman for many years to receive a law degree from George Washington University. She came to Washington about nine years ago to accept a position as a teacher in the Eastern High School. She is now teaching at the Manual Training School. Miss Clark expects to continue in pedagogy, and does not anticipate the early hanging out of a "shingle" as a practicing attorney.

Recipient of First Honors.

The recipient of first honors in the 1916 class of the Washington College of Law was Miss Laura M. Berrien of Waynesboro, Ga. Miss Berrien hopes some day to practice law in her native state, where now exists a barrier against woman lawyers. Efforts are being made to have the Georgia legislature pass a law admitting women to practice. Miss Berrien was graduated at the Georgia Normal and Industrial School before coming to Washington to accept a position in the census office. Here she became interested in the income tax division of the Treasury Department.

Miss S. Evelyn White ranked second in her class at the Washington College of Law. She is a native of Danville, Va., but has been in Washington, D. C., since 1912. She is employed in the real estate department of the Washington Loan and Trust Company. Miss Anna Speich also was among the honor bearers of her class. She was born at Sutton, Neb., and educated in the west. She came to Washington six years ago and is a clerk in the office of the auditor for the Post Office Department.

Miss Lucile Compton is a graduate of the Central High School in her class of 1909 and is employed in a legal atmosphere with a firm of patent lawyers. She has acquired a liking for the law and undertook the task of preparing for the bar examination. She is a native of Manchester, Ohio, but has lived here practically all her life.

Will Practice Profession Here.

Miss Dora Palkin expects to practice law in Washington. She was born in Stamford, Conn., and educated there. About four years ago she removed to the National Capital and later entered the Washington College of Law.

Miss Alice B. Preuss came from San Francisco, Cal., to Washington several years ago to accept a position in the civil war division of the United States pension bureau. She entered the Washington College of Law and by diligent application completed the three-year course at that institution in two years.

The citizenship of M. Garcia de Quevedo, of San Juan, Porto Rico, was the subject of much speculation among the lawyers on the committee before his admission to practice was submitted to the court. The Porto Rican, however, has been in government employment for six years, and the taking of the oath in the civil service was considered by the court as qualifying him for admission to practice.

SUNDRY CIVIL BILL PASSES BOTH HOUSES

Measure Carrying $128,299,284, Including District Items, Goes to President for Approval.

The conference report on the sundry civil appropriation bill, carrying $128,299,284, was agreed to in the House and in the Senate late yesterday afternoon, and the bill now goes to the President for his approval.

The Senate amendments increasing the appropriations for the Columbia Hospital were agreed to, and also the Senate amendment transferring title to the Columbia Institution for the Deaf in certain lands along the old right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio. The Senate amendment providing money for Aqueduct bridge was agreed to. The amendment providing for extending the boundaries of connecting parkway between Rock Creek and Potomac parks was stricken out, as was the provision for the enlargement of the Park contained in the Stone amendment.

The Senate amendment providing for a building commission to plan for the erection of permanent buildings for all the government departments and bureaus in the District of Columbia was agreed to with slight modifications so as to increase the personnel of the commission by two members in addition to the chairman of each congressional committee specified by the Senate amendment, and to limit the time of service on the commission to the term of office of the member of Congress, and to extend the time for the commission to make its final report to Congress from January 1, 1917, to January 1, 1918.

MAKES URGENT APPEAL TO OWNERS OF HORSES

Committee in Charge of Independence Day Carnival Wants Big Entry List.

With but four days remaining in which to complete preparations for the Independence day horse show and carnival at Brightwood reservoir, the committee in charge today made an urgent appeal to Washington horsemen to make liberal entries in the various classes.

There will be events for saddle and ponies and jumpers, while several half-mile races and a couple of mile races are scheduled. If sufficient entries can be obtained the show promises to be one of the best municipal entertainments ever staged at the reservoir, even if the usual military numbers are lacking.

Classed as Patriotic Obligation.

Washington is well stocked with thoroughbred horseflesh and the committee hopes that local owners will feel a patriotic obligation to make entries in the show. Entries should be sent to Melvin C. Hazen, chairman, at the District building. Cash prizes and a large number of valuable awards will be distributed among the winners.

There is strong probability of Fort Myer troopers and Camp Ordway military band participating in the program, in which event the entertainment should far surpass the best previous Fourth of July tournaments.

Comic Numbers to Be Staged.

Several comic numbers are to be staged, and the mule race, as usual, is attracting attention. The District government will have a number of entries in the latter, and Ralph Whitaker of Occoquan has entered a mule which he believes will "show up" the District contingent.

Arrangements are being made for policing what is expected to be a record-breaking crowd.

American Flier Highly Lauded. Others in Aviation Corps Get Honors.

PARIS, June 30.—It was while on an errand of mercy for a wounded comrade that Corporal Victor Chapman of New York, a member of the Franco-American aviation corps, met his death last week. Capt. All the members of the American squadron agreed to with slight modifications so as to increase the personnel of the commission by two members in addition to the chairman of each congressional committee specified by the Senate amendment, and to limit the time of service on the commission to the term of office of the member of Congress, and to extend the time for the commission to make its final report to Congress from January 1, 1917, to January 1, 1918.

Dashes Into the Fight.

While on his way he saw several black spots against the sky in the direction of the German lines. He flew toward them and discovered that three French aeroplanes were engaged with four German machines. The New Yorker dashed into the fight. He rose to a great height and swooping down he killed one of the German machines. His bullets found the mark, and Chapman sent them down almost as soon as he entered the combat. Then Capt. Boelke turned on the American and caught him at such an angle that he was able to rake the aeroplane with machine-gun fire. One bullet struck a vital spot, and Chapman plunged lifeless to the ground. He fell within the German lines.

High Tribute Is Paid.

The semi-official statement contains a tribute to the young American such as is seldom to be found in matter-of-fact communications of the kind. It says that a religious service will be held "in memory of this citizen of the United States who, inspired by sentiments of lofty idealism, gave his life for the cause of the allies." For their recent accomplishments and promises to the allies, given to American aviators as follows: Lieut. William K. Thaw of Pittsburgh, the cross of the Legion of Honor.
 Sergt. Kiffin Rockwell of Atlanta, the military medal.
 Sergt. Bert Hall of Bowling Green, Ky., the military medal.
 All the other members of the squadron except two are made sergeants.

Applications for Service With Roosevelt Swamp Oyster Bay.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 30.—Applications for enlistment in a proposed volunteer army division which Col. Theodore Roosevelt is preparing to organize if there is a call for volunteers are so numerous that the colonel's secretary, Walter J. Hays, issued today a statement in which he said:

"We have been literally deluged with telegrams and letters with applications from men who wish to join a volunteer division. It is physically impossible to reply individually to the organizations and the men who have communicated with us, but I will say that their applications are carefully filed for future reference, so that in the event of hostilities they can be apprised of what action in contemplation of the government includes almost everything necessary from shoes to automobiles and aeroplanes.
